Name …………………………………………… Index Number …………………/……

101/2
ENGLISH
Paper 2
(Comprehension, Literary Appreciation and Grammar)
Oct. /Nov. 2012

2 ½ hours

THE KENYA NATIONAL EXAMINATION COUNCIL
Kenya Certificate of Secondary Education
ENGLISH
Paper 2
2 ½ hours

101/2 – English Paper 2
Monday 11:00 am – 1.30 pm
05/11/2012 (2nd Session)

Instruction to candidates

(a) Write your name and index number in the spaces provided above.
(b) Sign and write the date of examination in the spaces provided above.
(c) Answer all the questions in this question paper.
(d) All your answers must be written in the spaces provided in this question paper.
(e) This paper consists of 11 printed pages.
(f) Candidates should check the question paper to ascertain that all the pages are printed as indicated and that no questions are missing.

For Examiner’s Use Only

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Question</th>
<th>Maximum Score</th>
<th>Candidate’s Score</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>25</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>20</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>15</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Total Score</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
1. Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Some fifteen thousand years ago an artist drew on the walls of a cave in Spain a picture of his Stone-Age neighbour robbing a bees’ nest of its golden store. In the centuries that have since gone by, no one has ever discovered or invented a purer and sweeter food than honey.

Because of its chief ingredient, levulose, or “fruit sugar”, honey is almost twice as sweet as cane sugar. Table sugar, like salt, has but one taste. Every honey has its own. It would take an epicure’s lifetime to discover, sample and enjoy all the possible vintages that bees distil from the thousands of species of nectar-bearing plants.

Honey is the purest of all foods. When properly ripened, its concentration of sugar is so high that bacteria cannot live in it for more than an hour or two. It is said that in one of the royal Egyptian tombs was found honey that was thirty-three hundred years old—darkened and thickened by time, but pure honey still. No knavery can corrupt honey without detection. If diluted with water, it ferments. Nor can the wax of the honeycomb, product of the bees’ own glands, be successfully imitated.

This ancient and mysterious food is one of the wonders of the world, the product of an intricate relation between bees; the high peak of insect evolution, and flowers, the loveliest part of the green world. Nature has adapted the forms of flowers to entice bees, and the bodies of bees to fit and pollinate the flowers and to use their pollens and nectar. Some ten thousand species flowers would be extinct but for the bees, and bees could not live without the flowers.

The honey bee is the most faithfully and provident of the flowers’ lovers. While a butterfly or a bird would move from flower to flower, a honey-bee is loyal to one sort of flower at a time. So she brings to each bloom none but its pacific pollen, and she makes but one kind of honey at a time.

At the height of the nectar flow in late spring and early summer, bees literally kill themselves with work. It is the destiny of every good worker to die flying, struggling to bring back one last load to the hive. It takes about three hundred pounds of honey just to keep one colony alive; thus to gather a surplus, so that you and I may have some, the hive’s workers must fly many million miles more.

Each drop of nectar is an ocean holding minerals, enzymes and foods. It contains traces of iron, copper, manganese, potassium, sodium, phosphorous, proteins and vitamins, this explains why many diabetics can tolerate honey but not table sugar, and why it helps babies to retain calcium and so grow stronger limbs and better teeth.

Only certain plants with truly exquisite nectars produce a honey you would want to eat. Many others yield nectar from which are made dark-coloured, strong flavoured honeys that bakers and confectioners use in immense quantities. Tobacco companies buy millions of pounds of low-grade honey a year for such honeys also go into lotions and... cough medicines. For thousands of years connoisseurs have been buying their honey with discrimination. The ancient Athenians got most delicate honey from Mt. Hymettis. It was famous because it came from a little wild flower called thyme.

Perfect as it is as a food, honey is more; it is a slow-formed, perfect drop upon a growing tip of evolution. To take that drop the tongue is to partake of a sacrament with nature.

(Adapted from New Horizons in English. A course for secondary schools, Book 4 by Alice Kiai et al, E.A.E. Publishers.)

(a) What amazing fact about honey do we learn from the first paragraph? (2 marks)

………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………

(b) Why is the bees’ nest described as “golden store”? (2 marks)

………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………

(c) Using information in the third paragraph, summarize the unique qualities of honey in not more than fifty words. (4 marks)

………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………

(d) In what ways are bees and flowers interdependent? (3 marks)

………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………
………………………………………………………………………………………

www.kenyanexams.com
(e) This ancient and mysterious food is one of the wonders of the world. (Re-write adding a question tag) (1 mark)

(f) What is the writer’s attitude towards the bee? (3 marks)
Give reasons from the passage to support your answer.

(g) Identify and explain the metaphor in the seventh paragraph. (3 marks)

(h) Explain the meaning of the following words as used in the passage.
Chief .................................................................(1 mark)
Knavery .............................................................. (1 mark)

2. Read the extract below and then answer the questions that follow

A few people applauded. And then there was silence. (Kabonyi too stirred something in their hearts). Soon they began to talk. Some saw a lot of truth in what Kabonyi had said. They knew they were not cowards. And surely it was easier to drive away the white man and return to the old ways! But others, especially the young people, were on Waiyaki’s side. Waiyaki himself was hurt. Kabonyi had touched on a sore spot, the question of youth. When Waiyaki stood up again the old defiance came back. The courage that had made him famous among the boys of his riika was now with him. At first he just looked at the people and held them with his eyes. Then he opened his mouth and began to speak. And his voice was like the voice of his father. No – it was like the voice of the great Gikuyu of old. Here again was the saviour, the one whose words touched the souls of the people. People listened and their hearts moved with the vibration of his voice. And he, like a shepherd speaking to his flock, avoided any words that might be insulting. In any case, how could he repudiate Kabonyi’s argument? Waiyaki told them that he was their son. They all were his parents. He did not want to lead. The elders were there to guide and lead the youth. And youth had to listen. He, Waiyaki, would listen. All he wanted was to serve the ridges, to serve the hills. They could not stand aloof. They could never remain isolated. Unless the people heeded his words and plans, the ridges would lose their former dignity and would be left a distance behind by the country beyond..

So he spoke, pointing out the importance of learning, of acquiring all the wisdom that one could get. People wanted him to go on, on, telling them the sweet words of wisdom. When he sat down the people stood and, as if of one voice, shouted. “The Teacher! The Teacher! We want the Teacher!”. And some shouted: “Our children must learn. Show us the way. We will follow.”

What more could Waiyaki want? He felt elated with gratitude and happiness.

Thereafter every elder and teacher who spoke added nothing but praise for the Teacher. An inter-ridge committee was elected to look after the education of all and see to the building of new schools in the country. Kabonyi was not on it.

(a) Explain what happens just before this extract. (3 marks)

........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................

(b) “The courage that had made him famous among the boys of his riika was now with him.” Given an incident earlier in the novel where Waiyaki demonstrates this courage. (5 marks)

........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................
........................................................................................................................................................................
(c) “And his voice … was like the voice of the great Gikuyu of old,”
What was it in Waiyaki’s background that explains Kabonyi’s antagonism? (6 marks)

…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………

(d) Identify and illustrate three character traits of Waiyaki brought out in this extract. (6 marks)

…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………

(e) Briefly state two serious accusations that Kabonyi raised against Waiyaki in a similar setting later in the novel. (4 marks)

…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
(f) Identify and explain any two figures of speech used in this extract. (4 marks)

…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………

(g) Rewrite the following sentence in direct speech:

Waiyaki told them, unless the people heeded his words and plans, the ridges would lose their former dignity and would be left a distance behind by the country beyond…

(1 mark)

…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………
…………………………………………………………………………………………

3. Read the poem below and answer the questions that follow.

He is a jolly good boss
Sits behind a shiny mahogany desk,
Dreamy and contented like an ore-fed python
That has just swallowed a breaded goat.

He is a good-natured fellow
Always patting the rumps of secretaries in tight skirts
Which say: marry me if you dare
Laughs absent-mindedly and sinks back into dear oblivion

He is an industrious head
Gets dog-tired early in the morning form signing a few papers
Whose contents he is mildly aware of
And leaves for lunch and for the day at 11:30 am

He is a humorous chap
Jokes about how he is underpaid and over-worked to his juniors
Who laugh subserviently to conceal their indignation
And grudging envy.
He is a mighty generous comrade
Brags about his Christ-heart.
Being a proud donor of a few bastards
To guileless girls under him,
And believes his is a God-sanctioned mission
That dates back to Abraham.

He is a jolly good boss,
A perfect paragon of leadership.

Ktche O. Magak.

(a) What is the message of this poem? (4 marks)

(b) Give evidence from the poem which indicates that the juniors are suffering quietly. (2 marks)

(c) Explain the image in the line
“Dreamy and contented like an overfed python.” (3 marks)
(e) Explain the meaning of the following as used in the poem: (3 marks)

(i) oblivion ..............................................................

(ii) guileless ............................................................

(iii) Good-sanctioned mission.................................

(f) Identify two instances of alliteration in the poem.

...................................................................................
...................................................................................

(g) Why are the last two lines in the poem significant? (2 marks)

...................................................................................
...................................................................................
...................................................................................
...................................................................................

4. (a) Rewrite the following sentences according to the instructions given after each. (3 marks)

(i) Esther said Patricia had stolen her dress.
   (Begin: Esther accused …)

...................................................................................
...................................................................................

(ii) This kind of dance fascinates the youth more than it does adults.
   (Begin: The youth …)

...................................................................................
...................................................................................

(iii) There are very few students in the classroom.
   (Use … any …)

...................................................................................
...................................................................................
(b) Fill in each blank space using the correct form of the word in brackets. (3 marks)

(i) We ............... (regular) visit our grandparents in the village.
(ii) The company has been in ............ for twenty years. (exist)
(iii) The man agreed to accompany her to the market after a lot of............ (persuade).

(c) Appropriately punctuate the following sentences to indicate parenthesis. (2 marks)

(i) When we meet next and I am not sure when a lot of things will have changed.

(ii) Any information that you have including minor details should be submitted to the office.

(d) Complete each of the following sentences using the correct phrasal verb formed form the word given in brackets. (3 marks)

(i) The bomb ..................... at around midnight. (go)
(ii) You have to ..................... to her what do. (spell)
(iii) Mwanig has ..................... The lights because he wants to sleep. (run)

(e) Fill in each of the blank spaces with an appropriate word. (4 marks)

(i) A short story revolves ............. a main character.
(ii) The teacher was grateful ............. the students’ input.
(iii) He has been ............ leave since last week.
(iv) Her life was riddled ............ Contradictions.

THIS IS THE LAST PRINTED PAGE.